Last Tuesday evening Professor Wallace McMurray gave a lecture on the plays of August Strindberg, as well as Strindberg, "Strindberg," said the professor, "was of a very passionate nature, and was easily led by his emotions; he feared love, and believed that love was the chief instrument of fate. Love was a time attract and appear insatiable, but later it repulses, and the agent which induces love, woman, leads man on with irresistible power to his fallure. Woman has more of the elemental nature in her make up, and she strives to conquer the sterner nature of man. Strindberg feared a few women because their power over him was so great and his own account for his hatred for all womankind. To Strindberg, woman is a fiend, with the cunning, having the attention centered vampire, sucking the life from her victim; and all of his plays present and develop this idea. Many of Strindberg's plays are intensely emotional, showing the author through the words, his dislike for a few women made him prejudiced against the race."

The play which Professor McMurray chose to read was "Miss Julia." He read the highest scene wherein three men, consisting of the guests as well as Belle's "Then You'll Remember Me" and Donizetti's famous Sextette from "Lucia," and again in accompaniment of the familiar Irish air, "Dear Little Shamrock"; the brilliant piano solo "Bolero" by Moszkowski; the violin duet, Mendelssohn's "I would That My Love"; and the vocal trio, Gounod's beautiful and fascinating "Waltz from Faust," sung by the Academic Singing Class.

The three beautifully rendered vocal solos called forth much applause.

Several brilliant harp and instrumental numbers displayed splendid ability on the part of the performers and reflected much credit on their teachers.

The audience was especially charmed with Miss Berndorfer's interpretation of the exquisitely beautiful and extremely difficult composition, "The Lark" by Glinka-Balakirew.

The evening's program was still further heightened by the two delightful duet numbers, "Judgment Day" by Mrs. McGlegity on Skates" by Mrs. Niemeyer.

The Academy Quartette brought the evening program to a close with a beautiful arrangement of Lavone's "Waltz, 'Estudiantina'."

Here is the program: Piano solo, Little Mazurka; Eneas Eleanor Campbell

Vocal solo, Who Knows? Ball Clara Doerfler

Trio, "Then You'll Remember Me" Violin, Anna Berndorfer; cello, Louise Berndorfer; harp,

COURT HOUSE NEWS

Attorney John A. Carson argued a demurrer to the indictment of Rex Turner and Cleve Simpkins, charged with larceny of public money, in department No. 1 of the circuit court this morning.

The defense demurred to the indictment on the grounds that it did not state facts sufficient to constitute a crime since it did not state to whom the money was to have been paid, that no mention was made of the officers authorized to receive the money and a number of other legal matters. The defense also asked for a separate trial for the defendants.

The judge took the matter under advisement and will hand down his ruling Monday.

Fred McClard, who was to be sentenced today asked for a continuance until next Tuesday which was granted by Judge Kelly. Attorney Smith, on behalf of McClard, stated that it was desired to arrange for a bond for McClard pending an appeal to the supreme court. Mr. Smith will appeal on the grounds that the court erred in admitting the testimony relative to a fire prior to one that the jury found McClard guilty of setting.

A demurrer to the indictment of J. W. Young on a charge of perjury was sustained in a ruling by Judge Kelly in the circuit court today and an order was issued resubmitting the matter to the grand jury.

The courtroom in department No. 1 was packed today during the taking of testimony in the case of the state against James Swoboda and Ella Swoboda, charged with assault upon Olive Skipton. All of the parties concerned are connected with the Indian Training school at Chemawa and the partisans of both sides were on hand to hear the testimony. W. C. Winslow was assisting the state in the prosecution and Dana H. Allen appeared for the defendant.

Judge Galloway this afternoon decided the case of the First National Bank of Roseburg against W. J. D'Arcy. In his ruling Judge Galloway held that the bank must be responsible for the action of its officers and a note for about $4000 was ordered cancelled by the bank. T. R. Sheridan was president of the bank and was a partner of D'Arcy's in a realty deal out of which the controversy arose, and the receiver of the bank sought to collect the note.

Ransom (Joe) Woolery today filed the application for his candidacy for constable of the Salem district at the office of the county clerk. It appears however, that there is no Ransom (Joe) Woolery registered as a voter although Ransom Woolery is registered from 344 South 25th street. The filing was rejected until the name was corrected.

A marriage license was issued at the office of the county clerk today to Miles H. Edwards, of this city, and Sarah E. Hill, of 217 Richmond avenue.

A suit was filed in the circuit court today by William Edman and others against Kin Dow to collect $2,938.62 alleged due on account.

County School Superintendent W. M. Smith and Edith Walker, L. P. Harrington, went to Turner last night to attend a special parent-teacher meeting held at that place. Mr. Harrington delivered an illustrated lecture on industrial clubs.

EMILIO DE GOGORZA HERE ONE WEEK FROM MONDAY

The local appearance of Emilio de Gogorza, the unique artist-pianist, promises to be one of the most satisfactory events the city has ever had. His many splendid successes in the concert and recital field have made him a unique figure in the world of music, as his fame has been gained entirely by his beautiful voice and pure artistry, without the usual embellishments of the orchestra, costumes and scenery, which, as a rule, play a very important part in the work of an artist. Everywhere when singing as soloist with an orchestra, Mr. De Gogorza's career has been devoted to recitals with the accompaniment only of a piano and it is along these lines entirely that he has been able to show to such good advantage the quality of his voice, his incomparable diction, his perfect technique and his wonderful control. Besides affording the unique satisfaction to his admirers by the vivacity and grace of the rendition of his numbers, the more than delightful mastery with which he handles the rare vocal difficulties and by the grace and greatest work. His personality is delightful, and by the grace and charm of his manner he wins his audience without a note, and before his first song is half finished he has cast a spell over his hearers that lasts to his final numbers and long afterwards. His versatility is shown in his programme which contains, beside grand opera selections, song groups in English, Spanish, German and Italian, all of which he sings with great fluency.

His recital here will, no doubt, as in other cities, be an event of musical and social importance and will take place at the Grand theatre on Monday, February 7.

THE MARKETS

The wheat market in Portland seems to be mostly speculative. Yesterday it was off from three to four cents. Local conditions in Portland appear to have much to do with quotations and for this reason, the Salem market does not follow Portland very closely. For the past week, 90 cents has been the prevailing price here for valley milling wheat.

Eggs are scarce and the local retailing price now is 40 cents.
